Exquisite dentistry that is divinely inspired: This is why patients choose Dr. John Selden of Inspired Dentistry of Charlotte.

“God sees everything. I’m accountable not only to my patients but someone much greater than myself as I care for people,” says Dr. Selden. “I have purely good intentions every day I go to work.”

The dentist’s beliefs inspire him to achieve an uncompromising standard of excellence in treatment and results; his talent and experience ensure he honors every promise he makes to a patient. His patients confidently showcase the results of his promises – their natural, stunning smile makeovers – on his website’s photo gallery. Dr. Selden credits his partnership with one of the nation’s finest master dental laboratory technicians, Terry Fohey in Athens, Georgia, for making those beautiful smiles possible.

Dr. Selden is one of few Charlotte dentists to provide teeth-in-a-day dental implants; he has published research on implants and serves as a lecturer, consultant, and mentor. Although Dr. Selden’s peers seek his expertise in complex restorative and cosmetic dentistry, it is his ability to make patients feel uplifted, encouraged, and valued that patients appreciate.

Dr. Selden credits his talented and kind-hearted team members for creating an atmosphere of joy that keeps patients coming back. “Their smiles are contagious,” says Dr. Selden, who created the charity TeamiDOC to serve area children, teachers, and troops.

Dr. Selden, who has been practicing in Charlotte since 1999, chuckles and then says, “Laughter is pretty common in our office. It’s clear we’re having a good time and feel incredibly privileged to help our patients.”
